Internal Revenue Scandal Brings More Indictments

By United Press

The government, goaded by an "angry" President, cracked down today with indictments from coast to coast in the widening internal revenue scandal.

A San Francisco grand jury indicted three former internal revenue officials on charges of conspiring to defraud the government.

A suspended Brooklyn deputy internal revenue collector was indicted on charges of bribe taking.

And the bureau itself did a little cracking down on delinquent taxpayers under the pressure from top-level officials in Washington.

There were these other developments:

1. Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap said the crackdown on tax-evading racketeers has more than doubled the number of tax fraud cases sent to the justice department for prosecution since the drive was started last spring.

2. Attorney General J. Howard McGrath announced he has sent a top FBI agent to San Francisco to investigate tax scandals there, and soon will name a "special assistant" to relieve U. S. Attorney Chauncy Tramutolo of all tax cases. He said he felt it "inadvisable" to allow Tramutolo to "handle tax cases" because of the dispute between Tramutolo and Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles O'Gara about giving a grand jury evidence about alleged corruption in the San Francisco internal revenue office.

3. The internal revenue bureau disclosed that 113 officials and employes have been ousted this year for "disciplinary reasons." This total does not include at least five tax collectors who have resigned or been fired. A spokesman said not all of the dismissals were connected with the tax scandals.

4. Dunlap said he will push future prosecutions of tax fraud cases regardless of the defendants' health.

5. Democrtic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney emerged from a White House conference to announce President Truman feels he has been "sold down the river by some disloyal" government employes and will take "drastic action" soon to clean up his administration.

Drastic Move Is Hinted for "Corruption"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — Attorney General McGrath and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover met with President Truman at the White House today amid indications the President will act soon to counter tax scandal testimony flooding from capitol hill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — A White House official indicated today that President Truman will make a new and possibly drastic move in the corruption-in-government picture soon, but just when was left up in the air.

The statement came shortly after Representative Byrns, R., Wis., member of a congressional committee holding hearings on tax scandals, had demanded that Attorney General J. Howard McGrath resign.

The committee, meanwhile, continued its sessions.

Asked About Action

Asked at a news conference whether "any dractic action" was coming from the President today in connection with the internal revenue and justice department tax disclosures, Joseph Short, the President's press secretary, replied:

"I just wouldn't want to make a prediction of when it will be—today, tomorrow or the next day."

"Then drastic action is coming?" a reporter said.

"You used that phrase," Short retorted.

Pressed further, Short said:

"I'm not saying any more than I've said."

Conference Set

The President will hold a news conference tomorrow and there was speculation he might have something to say then.

Newsmen asked Short today why Mr. Truman had still not set a time to confere with Attorney General McGrath, whose department has figured extensively in the house committee probe into tax fraud cases and a story of a $500,000 "shakedown" attempt.

Short said he would let the reporters know when the Truman-McGrath talk will take place.

Army Engineers Proposes More Dams for Power, Flood Control

SPOKANE, Dec. 12 (AP)—A consultant for the army engineers proposed today construction of new upstream Columbia river reservoirs to store 27,000,000 acre feet of water for power and flood control.

E. B. Torpen, Portland, said such reservoirs three years ago would have reduced by one-third the destructive Columbia river flood of 1948. The flood raised havoc in the northwest and wiped out the wartime city of Vanport, Ore.

"We have practically no effective storage for flood control now," Torpen told the Columbia basin interagency committee. He is an aide to Brig.-Gen. O. E. Walsh, division chief of the engineers and committee chairman.

Torpen said total flood storage probably does not exceed 5,000,000 acre feet now—with 1,200,000 at Coulee dam, a million in southern Idaho and scattered smaller amounts throughout the river basin.

He suggested his proposal would have cut the 1948 flood from 1,200,000 second feet to 800,000 second feet in the Columbia river at The Dalles, Ore.

Torpen, first to address the committee today, listed all of the potential storage reservoirs that are mentioned in the army engineers' 308 report on Columbia river development. He said it wasn't his purpose to say which should be built first.

The committee, which includes representatives of seven states and half a dozen federal agencies, also heard a report from Herbert Peet of the U. S. agriculture department at Portland.

In a lengthy written report, Peet said the federal forest service would distribute $6,250,000 to counties in Washington and Oregon [illegible] of forestry [illegible] fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

He said salvage operations have been started on 575,000,000 board feet of timber on the Olympic peninsula of western Washington, scene of raging forest fires last summer. He said state highways on the peninsula would be used to transport 200,000,000 board feet a year for the next three years.

Three state governors, Len Jordan of Idaho, Arthur Langlie of Washington, and Douglas McKay of Oregon, attended the morning session.

Farm Bureau Hears Speech For Economy

CHICAGO, Dec. 12 (UP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd carried his fight for economy in government before the American Farm Bureau federation today.

The Virginia Democrat spoke before the 7,000 delegates on the topic. "The Truck at Washington as I See It."

Another economy-minded senator, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R., Ill., also addressed the meeting.

Follow Blast

The talks of the senators followed a blast against the administration yesterday by Rep. Albert M. Cole, R., Kans. Cole told the delegates that the government was using price controls as a "sedative" to lull the people into a false sense of economic security.

He said the administration was following the "complex, devious and politically-expedient path of cheap money and price controls."

Expresses Motto

"A fat pocketbook will make you forget a lean market basket, is their motto," he said.

Cole told the farmers, who represents 46 states, that the beef price rollback was a political move made by the government in "ignorance of the facts."

Group Gives Backing To Probation Official

RUPERT, Dec. 12—At a meeting of representatives of churches, civic organizations, Rupert clubs and public officials here Tuesday night, a resolution was passed commending Louis Dspain for his work as probation officer in the recent juvenile delinquency cases heard in probate court.

The resolution commending Dspain came on the heels of a petition filed Monday with the county commissioners seeking the removal of the probation officer. There were 134 names on the petition. The commissioners tabled the request without decision. Later Probate Judge Wall, who appointed Dspain, said he thought the removal of a probation officer probably is within the jurisdiction of his court and not the commissioners.

Approximately 50 persons, most of whom were either representatives of some group or church, attended the meeting Tuesday night. The Rev. Earl Terry, pastor of the Methodist church, was moderator and Mrs. Sherman Bellwood was secretary. A transcript of all that transpired is being prepared for the organization representatives to take back to their groups.

Reaction Sought

The object of the meeting was to get reaction to the recent work done on the juvenile problem here so the city council can formulate a program of control. The representatives are to seek advice from their groups and to return to a later public meeting with recommendations. The recommendations made by the groups will be combined and submitted to the city council as suggestions for future action.

Among the things discussed at the meeting Tuesday were the curfew law, the driving law as it pertains to juveniles, air rifles, slingshots and lewd magazines.

Raps Petition

The Rev. Father H. E. Heitman, in speaking on the petition seeking the dismissal of Dspain, said it was a disgrace to anyone to sign a petition seeking the ouster of a public official for doing his job.

Mrs. Bellwood, representing the Lincoln PTA, said it was the consensus of her group that parents should be fined for the delinquency of their children.

Police Chief H. C. Smith brought up the matter of air rifles. He said that approximately $2,000 worth of

Man Injured By Hit, Run Car at Buhl

[illegible] O'Donnell, 45, Buhl [illegible] reported in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial hospital Wednesday afternoon. O'Donnell was struck by an unidentified car while walking along highway 30 one and three-fourths miles west of Buhl. He received bruises and shock.

A county deputy set the time of the accident between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m. He said O'Donnell was fixing fences and had started back along the highway to where his car was parked. He was struck by a car moving westward in the same direction he was walking.

Officers have little to go on in identifying the car and driver since O'Donnell was unable to give them any description. After being struck he was able to get to his car and drive one-half mile to a farm where Ira Thompson was working. Thompson brought O'Donnell to Buhl where after a physician examined him he was taken to the hospital.

Ice on the highway four miles south of Gooding caused a 1950 sedan to skid and land upside down in the borrow pit. However, none of the occupants was injured.

The accident occurred about 5 p. m. Tuesday as Harold Quick, Caliente, Nev., drove toward Gooding to attend funeral services for his mother, Mrs. Flora Fredericksen, who died Sunday. He was accompanied by his family.

In minor accidents in Twin Falls Tuesday a boy on a bicycle was

Eccles to Speak At Meet Tonight

Marriner S. Eccles, Ogden, Utah, former federal reserve board chairman, will speak at 7 p. m. today in the Legion hall to a point meeting of the Rotary and Lions clubs, James Koutnik, Rotary program chairman, reminds members of the two clubs.

Eccles, board chairman of the First Security corporation, spoke Tuesday night at Boise at a meeting of company workers. A United Press report quoted him as saying the nation's future "looks pretty grim without leadership."

He also gave his opinion that taxes "have gone the limit" but declared there was "every evidence of stability in fiscal affairs in 1952."

75 More Donors Needed Here for Increased Quota

At least 75 more donors are needed to meet an increased quota set for the Red Cross bloodmobile which will be here Tuesday, according to Mrs. Ruby Connelley, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter.

Bloodmobile officials have informer her that added facilities permit handling six more donors per hour for a total of 60 more than the original quota of 200 set here.

The bloodmobile will start its drawings at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the American Legion hall. Blood drawn will be flown to Korea for members of the armed forces. Persons wishing to donate may telephone 101 to make their appointments.

Controls Imposed On Rents in Area

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (UP) — Rent Stabilizer Tighe E. Woods today imposed federal rent controls in Mountain Home and the adjoining area.

Woods set rents of May 1, 1951, as the maximum level.

U. N. Expects Red Attempt to Retain Prisoners of War

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Dec. 12 (UP)—The United Nations warned tonight that the communists may try to hold back "sizeable numbers" of captured allied soldiers from any exchange of war prisoners.

A. U.N. command communique said the reds for the second straight day refused in a subcommittee meeting even to provide a list of U. N. war prisoners until the allies agree to release all 120,000 or more communist war prisoners.

The communique ominously added:

"The U.N. command is concerned that premature agreement on a bulk exchange of prisoners before adequate data is available could result in sizeable numbers not being recovered."

The U.N. demanded that the prisoners be exchanged only on a man-for-man basis until a final peace settlement has been reached. The communists hold fewer than half as many prisoners as the allies, the U.N. believes, and any bulk exchange would give the reds an unfair advantage if hostilities should be resumed.

Reject Proposal

The communists also rejected in another subcommittee a seven-point U.N. compromise proposal on policing an armistice.

The U.N. offered the reds three major concessions—neutral instead of joint U.N.-communist observer teams to check for armistice violations, withdrawal of U.N. forces from coastal islands north of the cease-fire line, and the right to repair war damage to existing airfields.

Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang said the concessions were not sufficient. He objected to allied demands for continuation of the American troops rotation program, neutral air reconnaissance over all Korea during a truce, and a ban on new airport construction.

Meeting Again

Both subcommittees will meet aagin at 11 a. m. tomorrow (7 p. m. today MST).

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, chief U.N. delegate on the prisoner of war subcommittee, bitterly accused the reds at Wednesday's session of refusing to follow "civilized rules of warfare" in handling the question.

He charged that the communists were flouting the Geneva convention by holding out the number and names of U.N. prisoners, refusing to disclose the location of prison camps, and barring international Red Cross representatives from the camps.

The reds thereupon offered a modified five-point program for a prisoner exchange, but it still demanded that the U.N. agree to release all war prisoners before the reds even disclose the number of U.N. prisoners in communist camps.

Solon Opines "Ike" Has to Work for Bid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Senator Ferguson, R., Mich., said today he doesn't think Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower can get the 1952 Republican presidential nomination unless he seeks it openly.

The Michigan senator, who hasn't taken sides in the presidential contest, told reporters he has the impression that Eisenhower would be "available" but doesn't believe that is enough.

Would Accept

"I think Eisenhower would accept the nomination but I don't believe he can get it without running for it," Ferguson commented. Asked who the nominee would be in that case, he replied: "Senator Taft."

Ferguson's comments came after Senator Russell, D., Ga., told a news conference yesterday it will be a "major miracle" if all the difficulties confronting the North Atlantic treaty organization (NATO) now commanded by Eisenhower can be ironed out in the next 10 or 12 months.

Doing Great Job

Remarking that Eisenhower is "doing a great job" as the NATO chief, the Georgia senator said he doesn't know "any other man in the free world who could hold the thing together as he is doing." Russell just returned from Europe.

This was interpreted by some as indicating Russell believes it may be difficult for Eisenhower to become a candidate for a presidential nomination. However, Russell said the general conceivably could decide that he could serve NATO better by seeking the presidency than by remaining as military commander.

Seal Sales in T. F. Hit $900 Mark to Date

Almost $900 has been taken in so far from Christmas seals sold in Twin Falls, Mrs. J. O. Pumphrey, chairman of the city drive, reports. She also reports that collections in Castleford this year totaled $107.20, more than in 1950.

According to Mrs. Pumphrey, many of the envelopes in which the money was received contained favorable comments about the work of the tuberculosis association. She has no report of sales in Buhl, Filer or Kimberly as yet. Mrs. Doris Stradley, chairman of the drive in county schools, reports collection of $104.02 from four county schools.

Mrs. Pumphrey points out statements from the National Tuberculosis association which emphasize that the infectious disease can attack anyone without warning, but it can be prevented and cured.

The association says that 250,000 people in the United States have tuberculosis that has not been reported to health officials. Many of these people do not know they are ill.

The national association explains how you can help fight the disease. First, get your chest X-rayed; second, urge others to get their chest X-rayed; third, support actively all health and welfare measures being carried on or advocated by the Tuberculosis association, and finally, buy Christmas seals.

Christmas seals, the group points out, are the sole support of 3,000 local and state Tuberculosis associations affiliated with the national group.

Help Sought For Wendell On Highway

BOISE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Delegations from Power county and the Wendell highway district discussed road problems with the state highway board today.

A group from Wendell discussed ways of getting federal aid for a farm-to-market road south of Wendell.

State Highway Engineer Earle V. Miller said that since the district already has its share of the money and the U. S. bureau of public roads has certified the project as eligible for federal money, it now is merely a matter of routine to obtain it.

Power county commissioners discussed with the board a road from U. S. 30 south to Pauline along Bannock creek. The road would go through an Indian reservation, and the commissioners are trying to get county money to match federal secondary road funds.

Little can be done on the project, Miller said, until after a scheduled election is held to dissolve highway district three.

The commissioners also asked aid in repairing a 12-mile stretch between Roy and Holbrook on the American Falls-Malad highway. They said they would try to work out an agreement with Oneida county commissioners for the work.

County Jail's Tipsy Driver List Growing

Six drivers are serving time in the Twin Falls county jail after being sentenced for drunken driving, records showed Wednesday.

The latest to join the group in the county jail is Bernard J. McKittrick, 40 Billings, Mont. He was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and fined $100 and costs.

McKittrick was arrested Monday evening a short time after his car crashed into another auto being pulled by a wrecker.

A $100 fine was paid by Hugh Holtzapple, Twin Falls, for failing to report an accident, in Filer justice court Tuesday. Holtzapple admitted being the driver of a pickup truck which crashed into a power pole one-half mile east of Filer on highway 30 Sunday afternoon.

Area's Water Districts Vote For Directors

Returns from two of seven precincts of the American Falls Reservoir district indicate almost no opposition to the reelection of J. E. Barker, Buhl, and Robert Houghland, American Falls, to directorships in the district.

Neither man was opposed on the ballot but voters were permitted to write in the names of candidates.

At Filer 18 votes were cast with Houghland and Barker each receiving 16. Twenty-eight votes were cast in Twin Falls, Houghland receiving 28, Barker 27 and one write-in vote for Bud McNeely, Filer.

Unavailable are reports from polling places at Bliss, Wendell, Jerome, Buhl and Springfield-Aberdeen. The votes will be canvassed Monday at a meeting of the directors in Twin Falls.

In elections in the Minidoka, Milner and Burley districts, incumbent directors were returned to office with opposition only at Minidoka.

Residents in Minidoka irrigation district reelected Roy Marquess as director from district 2. Marquess received 205 votes; Clifton May 56 and H. V. Beaver 26.

In the Milner lowlift irrigation district, Edgar Moorman, unopposed, received 31 votes.

A. L. Holyoak, Starrhs Ferry, and J. W. Patterson, View, were reelected directors in the Burley irrigation district. There was no opposition.

Holyoak received 54 votes and Patterson 59.

The board members were elected in the King Hill irrigation district. Ralph Thompson, Bliss, received 102 votes and Wilbur Wilson, Hammett, 97. Earl Hoalst, Hammett, received six writein votes.

25 Seeking Police Post

BUHL, Dec. 12—Buhl's city council Tuesday night considered 25 applications for the position of police chief but took no action on any of them. Eight of the applicants appeared in person.

It was a week ago Tuesday night that the council fired Police Chief Henry Burns and loosened a wave of conjectures, rumors, charges and counter-charges relative to law enforcement in the city. Burns called on Gov. Len Jordan in Boise following his dismissal and as a result the governor ordered Sheriff Jesse Carlton and Prosecuting Attorney Max Lloyd to investigate conditions here.

Carlton and Lloyd received their instructions from the governor Monday.

Applications for the vacated position in Buhl were received from Caldwell, Nampa, Emmett, Pocatello, Meridian, Jerome, Boise, Parma, Buhl, Wendell, Oregon and Utah.

Beer licenses were granted by the council Tuesday night to Shriver's grocery, Barron's cigar store, Fox's cigar store, the Sport shop, the Club Royal and C. G. Anderson's grocery. A plumbing license was granted David Cantrell.

Major Airlines Slash Fares in Battle Of Air Coaches at Home, Across Sea

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—The battle of the air coaches is on. Prices of flying without frills, both at home and across the Atlantic, are being cut.

The major airlines are slashing fares to meet the competition of the non-scheduled air carriers who have been ferrying thrifty passengers across the country for less.

They also are bringing their air-coach rates down in competition with the rail-coach fares. Some of the non-skeds are fighting back, asking the right to make more air coach flights.

The airliners will ask $486 for the round trip during the summer and $417 during the winter, compared to the present $711. Several are preparing package tourist-trips, offering two-week vacations in Europe for a total cost of $600 to $700, including transportation and lodging.

Air coach travel has grown rapidly as an economy minded public learned to save money by doing without the free meals, wider seats, lounge room and other attentions, including faster flights, handed out on a first-class luxury plane.

The non-skeds developed the field first. Later the scheduled carriers put in regular flights, but at slightly higher cost than their less regular competitors. Non-sked transcontinental flights have cost $99 or $88. Scheduled carriers charged $110 for air coach. First-class fare was, and remains, $157.85.

United Air lines started the present rush to meet the non-sked price competition by announcing that it would—when it gets the approval of the civil aeronautics board—haul a passenger from San Francisco to New York for $99, compared with its former rate of $110. It will fly air coach passengers from New York to San Francisco for $88. United said the fare difference is to meet non-sked fares as set up for the two directions.

Trans World airlines announces it will meet this new competition with a $99 fare between New York and either San Francisco or Los Angeles, also subject to CAB approval.

Today Deadline for T. F. Needy Families Reports

Today is the deadline for local residents to call in names of needy families to be remembered in the Jaycee and Jay-C-Ettes Christmas basket program. The master list, to avoid duplication of gifts, is being handled by Mrs. John Gentry, whose telephone number is 1591-R.

Today also is the day the Jaycees are starting their fifth annual drive for materials for the baskets. Slogan for the program is "No Hungry Families in Twin Falls This Christmas."

Teams of Jaycees will solicit local merchants, produce dealers and wholesalers for the next four days, for their aid in supplying produce, canned goods, poultry and funds with which to buy other items.

Co-chairmen John Feldhusen and Norman Herzinger are asking the business concerns to give what they can to make possible a real Christmas dinner for needy and deserving families.

Jay-C-Ettes are cooperating with Jaycees in many ways. Mrs. Addison Parker is assisting Mrs. Gentry in compiling the master list. Mrs. John Feldhusen and Mrs. Eugene Chaplin will direct packing the baskets. The baskets will be made up in the building formerly occupied by the Brunswick.

The organizations ask persons wishing to make up baskets of their own for a needy family to call Mrs. Gentry who then will suggest a family to the donor so that duplications may be avoided.

Persons wishing to donate food for the baskets also may call Mrs. Gentry to have their items taken to basket packing headquarters. Mrs. Gentry said she believes her list is complete, but will welcome calls from the public to make certain no one is left out.

State and Kimberly police cited Frank Moses, 31, Salt Lake City, for negligent driving early Wednesday after his 1946 truck and semi-trailer collided with a car owned by Paul Bowman, Kimberly. Moses will answer the charge before Justice of the Peace Ray Potter Saturday.

State police said the truck was headed north about 300 feet north of the intersection of highway 30 and Main street in Kimberly. Officers said the truck, owned by Garrett Freightlines, went to the wrong side of the road rounding the curve, knocking the car through a fence.

Damage to the car, a 1950 Ford, was estimated at $1,000. The truck was not damaged but damage to the fence, on the property of Oscar Widler, was estimated at $25. Time of the accident was 5:40 a. m. Officers said the highway was slippery.

He appeared in court with E. H. Heap, local attorney, and E. V. Hohener, San Leandro, Calif., owner of the truck.

Lucas previously had posted a $200 appearance bond. He received the first citation Nov. 11 and the second Nov. 26, both with the same truck at the Hollister port of entry station. He was fined $25 and $3 costs for the first offense, and $50 and $3 costs for the second.

Mr. and Mrs. June Kirkman will be hosts at a potluck turkey dinner at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Kirkman home for a newly formed YWCA adult social club, it is announced by Mrs. R. O. McCall, YWCA executive director.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hensen are YWCA hosts for the club, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Kirkman.

bumped by a car and an auto dented a fender backing from the curb.

Roy Bright, route 2, Filer, told police he was turning off Main avenue onto Shoshone street at 8:25 a.m. when his car struck a cyclist. The impact did not knock the boy down and he rode away before Bright could learn his name.

Mrs. Earl Parrott, Eden, reported she damaged slightly a fender on another car as she was backing from a diagonal parking space in the 100 block of Main avenue west shortly after noon. She said the owner of the other car told her he would take care of the damage.

A 1950 Buick driven by Helen A. Swall, Roseberg, Ore., and a 1950 Ford driven by Von C. Smith, Boise, collided on sugar factory road two miles west of Kimberly at 2 a.m. Wednesday.

Stalled on Road

State police said the Kimberly police car was stalled on the road and an officer, aided by a passerby, was attempting to flag down traffic with flashlights. Smith approached and attempted to slow down to stop. Miss Swall was unable to stop soon enough and her car skidded into the rear of the Smith car.

Damage to the Swall car was estimated at $300 and damage to the Smith car at $100. There were no injuries.

Locomotive Hit

A 1951 Buick sedan skidded into a 1949 General Electric diesel locomotive owned by the Amalgamated Sugar company on sugar factory road Wednesday morning. Damage to the car was estimated by state police at $100.

Officers said the car, driven by Lowell R. McKinster, Kimberly, was headed west toward the tracks alongside the sugar factory. He said other railroad cars on one of three tracks crossing the road blocked the driver's view of the locomotive, operated by Kimber Glenn. McKinster attempted to stop, but skidded into the locomotive. He was going slow and was not injured.

Skids Off Road

A 1940 Cadillac sedan driven by Marvin J. Christensen, Pocatello, skidded off highway 30 one and one-half miles east of Kimberly about 9:30 a.m., breaking off a power pole near the ground. State police estimated damage to the car at $500.

Mrs. Sue Crootes, 344 Seventh avenue north, was the driver of a car which damaged the tail light on her neighbor's car Tuesday evening. She said damage was settled between the parties.

R. M. Newbry, 403 Filer avenue, reported he backed into another car at a service station at Five Points west. He said a parking light on the other car and his tail light were damaged. The accident occurred at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Cars driven by Frank L. Cook and Virgie O. Blakeslee, Filer, collided at Blue Lakes boulevard north and Heyburn avenue at 11:17 a. m. Wednesday.

The front of the Cook car and the right rear fender and rear of the Blakeslee vehicle were damaged. Blakeslee was traveling east on Heyburn avenue and Cook was going south on Blue Lakes boulevard north.

Local Recruiter Gets Orders for Overseas Duties

S/Sgt. Dennis W. Lilly, marine corps recruiter here, is of the opinion Tuesday wasn't a day too soon for him to borrow one of the new 3.5-inch "bazookas" from army reserve headquarters for a bit of study toward a promotion to technical sergeant.

Wednesday morning the sergeant received a telephone call that he is being ordered to report to Camp Pendleton, Calif., Jan. 2 for overseas assignment. He has been a recruiter here three years and two months.

Following a statement by Judge Wall, the group went on record as favoring the hiring of a fulltime probate officer. The possibility of the school district and the city council sharing expenses with the county for such an officer also was discussed.

Case Is Filed For Business

Blanche Cox and Neal R. Dalton filed suit in district court Tuesday against M. A. Spellman. They seek $150 for merchandise they claim he sold at the Rex Cigar store, 139 Shoshone street south, after management of the business was turned over to him, plus $200 monthly rent from Nov. and return of possession of the business or $1,500.

Dalton and Mrs. Cox claim they own the establishment. She claims she purchased Spellman's interest March 14 and Dalton purchased the interest of J. D. McGill May 14. The plaintiffs claim they received a lease on the building good until Oct. 30.

On July 19, according to the complaint, Dalton and Mrs. Cox turned management over to Spellman until he could sell the business at which time he was to pay them $3,000. The plaintiffs claim Spellman orally agreed to sell the business within 90 days and pay Dalton and Mrs. Cox $1,500. The complaint claims he refused to surrender the business to them, has operated the business since August and has obtained a five-year lease on the building.

Benoit and Benoit are the attorneys for Mrs. Cox and Dalton.

The board of city commissioners revoked the beer license of Mrs. Cox and Dalton in mid-June following a hearing. City police had arrested Dalton for fighting with five of his customers. He later pleaded guilty of disturbing the peace.

OUR DEFENSE EFFORT LAGS

The able senate preparedness committee under Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas has turned up defense production facts which are difficult to blink. For the period from April to June of this year, aircraft deliveries were 24 per cent below expectations; tank deliveries 40 per cent below; electronics equipment 30 per cent short, and guided missiles 70 per cent under the goal.

In all, deliveries for all kinds of weapons and equipment fell $600,000,000 behind projected objectives.

The committee properly chided Maj.-Gen. George H. Olmstead, director of the defense department's military aid program, for attempting to conceal some of these facts.

When original schedules for arms shipments to Europe collapsed, his office simply lowered its sights to easier goals. Later, because these more limited aims were surpassed, the general misleadingly told newsmen overseas shipments were "well ahead of schedule."

This kind of performance has no place in a nation trying seriously to contribute the lion's share to defense of the free world. We cannot inspire confidence in the American government by resort to statistical trickery. Both the people at home and our friends abroad are entitled to a straight story.

In this case, the story is not a happy one. According to the Johnson report, our production deficiencies can be laid to shortages of materials, manpower and machine tools. We seem not to have learned the lesson of World war II—that ample provision for greatly expanded output of machine tools is fundamental to the entire defense effort.

These shortages exist, said the committee, because production is badly coordinated and because we Americans do not "have the courage to put guns ahead of butter." In other words, we are still too intent on maintaining business as usual and running the defense program as a sort of sideshow. The hard decisions that would give defense the dominating priority it needs are not being made.

All this means, of course, that neither we nor our allies are getting the sort of defense we presumably want. For example, the Johnson committee declared "the sad fact is we do not have a modernized air fleet which begins to approach our target of 95 wings." To authorize 140-odd wings, as is contemplated, will only add to an illusion of strength which does not exist. We are still just paper-strong.

We are asking the Europeans to face the realities, to slash through the underbrush of preliminaries and get down to business. We had better practice what we preach.

MILITARY GOVERNMENT

Brig.-Gen. Julius Holmes, now U. S. minister-counselor at the U. S. embassy in London, tells the story of how the United States got into the field of military government during World war II. It has an important bearing on one of the major U. S. responsibilities today, which is in finding good and competent men who can work with foreign governments in developing their rearmament programs.

The United States has no West Point for training diplomats. And such "pro-consuls" as it does develop have to learn their lessons the hard way, by bitter experience.

It was like that in World war II, according to General Holmes. After the conclusion of the African campaign, General Eisenhower received a directive from the chiefs of staff to take Sicily. The plan for the military campaign was all worked out in detail. And then General Holmes, who was on Eisenhower's staff, raised the question, "What are we going to do with it after we get it?"

Everybody looked up in amazement and asked General Holmes what he meant. Well, he explained, here was a good-sized island with a lot of people on it. They had to be fed, the police and fire departments had to be run, and so on.

"You do that," said General Eisenhower.

"In addition to my other duties?" asked General Holmes.

"Yeh," said Ike.

And so the idea of military government was born. General Holmes sent scouts into the African towns to see if they could buy copies of Baedecker's guide to Italy, and any other books on Sicily. They came back with two. They served as the basis for seeing what the geography of the place was, and how it had been governed.

When General Holmes had figured out what the army would do with Sicily after it was taken, he flew to Washington with his plans and got them approved. Two days later Maj.-Gen. John M. Hildring was assigned by General Marshall, then chief of staff, to open a military government school at University of Virginia. And so the U. S. got into the business.

At the end of the war, however, the school was allowed to die, and all the civilians who had been recruited as military governors were mustered out of the army. So now the job has to be done all over again.

The unsuccessful man can often blame his plight on running around too much, says a writer. He winds up traveling in circles.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The frequent mention of Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, Kentucky, as a presidential possibility in event of a Truman retirement has caused such a stirring of ambition among his associate jurists that personal and judicial harmony may be jeopardized until the question is resolved.

Ray Tucker

Although only four members of the court are considered to be in the running as Vinson's successor, should he be nominated by Trumanless Democrats next July, every one of his eight colleagues is eager for elevation to the highest honor a judge can attain barring the presidency.

ADVANTAGE—Lest speculation on this question may seem indiscreet or embarrassing to the eight black-robed men on the high tribunal, it should be noted here that personal and political considerations enter into the naming of a chief justice as fully as they do into any other partisan appointment. There is nothing sacrosanct about these nominations.

A President normally consults party bigwigs about filling vacancies, seeking to gain whatever advantage he can for himself and the party. Incumbents frequently propose or oppose names on the White House roster, as they did in advance of the appointments of the late Chief Justices Taft and Stone. Sectional and religious considerations sometimes influence the selection.

• • •

AMBITIONS—In short, a man does not become immune to personal or political ambitions and motives, or even to human frailties, simply because he goes on the bench. This has been especially true ever since Franklin D. Roosevelt dragged the court into sharp political controversy with his court-packing proposal.

Moreover, both FDR and Mr. Truman, by assigning members to outside tasks, have stripped this tribunal of the aloofness and dignity it once enjoyed and merited.

Thus, as a result of Vinson's indirect involvement in party politics, and in view of the character of the court, a behind-the-robing-chamber rivalry animates and excites his colleagues.

SENIOR—Four men known to believe themselves entitled to promotion to the chief justice assignment are Justices Hugo Lafayette Black, Alabama; Stanley Forman Reed, Kentucky, Robert Houghwout Jackson, New York, and William Orville Douglas, Washington. All four were suggested when Vinson was brought in from the outside by Mr. Truman in 1946.

Black is the senior of the court, as well as one of its most able and hard-working members. But he and Mr. Truman never have been close friends. Moreover, the fact that he hails from Alabama would not mean that his selection would be politically helpful. He is 66 years old, which makes him fairly near the retirement age of 70.

FAVORITE—Reed ranks second to Black in seniority. His resignation has been expected for some time, but his recent recovery of health inclined him to remain on. Now that there is the slightest chance of his becoming a chief justice, he will not quit until the question is settled. He is 68, which may jeopardize his chances.

The lawyers' favorite would be Justice Jackson, New York, who is considered to have the most brilliant legal mind on the court. Contrary to President Truman's failing memory in this instance, he is the man suggested for the Stone vacancy by the late Charles Evans Hughes. Jackson's other assets are his age—he is 60—and his New York background.

IMPETUOUS—"Cowboy Bill" Douglas is the darling of the so-called "liberals," especially as they are represented by the Americans for Democratic Action, which speaks for the Roosevelt faction of the party. Mr. Truman's growing dislike of that impetuous group, however, may not help the Douglas ambitions.

Court conservatives, as well as politicians and lawyers of that stripe, would be horrified by his selection. His public pronouncements on world problems, especially Russia, make him anathema to them. It is doubtful if the White House would dare to brave that prejudice. Douglas is 53.

• • •

CONSERVATIVE—It is probable that Justice Jackson would also be the choice of Mr. Vinson, who would naturally be consulted about a successor by Mr. Truman, if there should be a vacancy next year.

Although they have not alway agreed on the court, both are of the quiet, conservative type. No other appointment would so commend both Mr. Truman and Mr. Vinson to influential legal, financial and business interests in New York and elsewhere.

That would be an important consideration in a presidential year, and it will figure importantly in any conversations the President and the chief justice may have on the question.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

MORE HIGHWAY PUZZLES

If you ask "What are highways for?" you might be thought a handy candidate for the booby hatch. A serious answer to this question, however, is a complication in itself. It is more than academic; it is a serious question which hasn't been answered, completely. It poses some serious financial problems, too.

The folks down at Genesee, and particularly the commissioners of Genesee highway district and commissioners of highway district No. 1, north of Genesee, are wondering, and puzzled. They have a right to be. Other folks will be puzzled too in the years to come.

A few years ago highways were built for a two-purpose reason: to serve local area residents and to carry intra-area traffic. Today highways are built almost wholly for the latter purpose. Here we distinguish, of course, between highways and roads; roads, in this definition, still are built to serve area residents.

Thirty years ago U. S. 95 was constructed through this area. It was completed a few years later as the north and south highway with construction of the joining links through the canyon of the Little Salmon and the main Salmon river between New Meadows and Grangeville. The right-of-way for this principal arterial highway was purchased by local taxpaying districts. This right-of-way was deeded to the state, and the state constructed the highway and guaranteed its maintenance.

Generally the highway still follows the original locations. But there have been diversions to shorten the distance and to eliminate grades and curves. Some of the relocations have been minor, as, for example, the relocation north of Moscow, over Viola grade and past the village of Viola. Yet this left about four miles of the old road—along which are more residents than the new section—a highway "no man's land." It recently was turned back to highway district No. 2 to maintain.

Genesee commissioners were told the other day, they say, that the state will turn over to the two local highway districts involved the old section of state highway north from Genesee to Thorncreek. This is a section of about 10 miles. Bordering it are practically all the farm residences between Thorncreek and Genesee. The new route serves practically no local homes.

Folks in the area are pretty disturbed. The maintenance costs could be more than the district can afford. The districts once raised $70,000 to purchase this right-of-way and deed it to state. The purchase was through bonds, since paid off, but entailing with interest charges a sum larger than the purchase price.

With respect to the four miles of highway abandoned north of Moscow, and recently turned back to district No. 2, a further incongruity results. Not only did the Moscow district purchase the right-of-way now abandoned, but five years ago it also purchased, and deeded to the state, the right-of-way for the road that superceded that stretch. And bonds for the original purchase, floated back in 1919, are not yet paid for.

The state's position is logical also. If it were to go on maintaining all the abandoned sections displaced by new highways it would be assuming a liability which could soon preclude modernizing the state road system simply through lack of funds.

As the state system is further modernized we may expect the new policy of turning back such sections of old highways to local districts to accelerate. There will be many more sections abandoned and many more problems shoved onto the unwilling laps of local districts.— Moscow Idahonian.

POT SHOTS

ANY COLDER SO EARLY?

Dear Potso:

Nope, you're not expected to pull the answer to this one out of your hat. It's one of those things that developed out of an argument.

One party claims there has never been such cold weather so early as that recent cold snap. The other says there's nothing particularly unusual about it.

Where can we get the answer? We've bet five cents on the question. And we're making the wager with our eyes wide open. After all, it's gambling in spite of the smallness of the wager and gambling just ain't legal. And besides, we don't have any of those federal gambling licenses.

QUITE SIMPLE

Dear Pot Shots:

There was a lot of talk this year about simplifying income tax return forms. I understand one tormented taxpayer actually did something about it.

He suggested a form to the internal revenue department on which these four lines should appear:

1. What was your income this year?
2. What were your expenses?
3. How much have you left?
4. Send it in.

GENTLEMAN IN THE

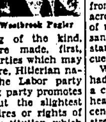
HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

LONDON—The British house of commons is advertised as the best legislature in the world. It has its points, but its reputation stands only for lack of intelligent challenge.



Westbrook Pegler

A booklet I bought in the long corridor running past Westminster hall, which is an annex of the house, says "we the people, ultimately decide how the country shall be governed."

They, the people, decide nothing of the kind.

The decisions are made, first, through political parties which may be committed to pure, Hitlerian national socialism. The Labor party was. And any ruling party promotes its program without the slightest respect for the desires or rights of the people or the constitution, which is imaginary, anyway.

The party exists for the party.

The parties run the elections absolutely and, after election, the party in power delegates judicial and even legislative power to cabinet members in command of divisions of the bureaucracy.

These cabinet ministries, in turn, delegate power to minor bureaucrats. And the people have no more real power than so many buttonhole makers in the private empire of Dave Dubinsky.

• • •

Self-acknowledged authorities, who constantly pelt this decrepit, negligent and seedy institution with new-mown rose-petals merely because it is British, can't even agree whether a member of parliament does or should represent his district, his party, his own moral and political convictions or the voters who put him over.

Usually, their votes elect persons who are total strangers to them, chosen by other strangers in party headquarters in London. The proposition is strongly advanced that the people should not be intimately acquainted with their parliamentary representatives. Ten MPs reside in their "constituencies."

I am not the one who discovered the practice of delegating judicial and legislative authority to bureaucrats. I thought I was, but I learned that there was a good deal of literature on the theme.

This literature deals with a condition grown markedly worse since the disciples of Karl Marx took over the government in the name of the Labor party, which is actually a socialist party.

• • •

As I was passing through the long corridor leading to the lobby of the house, I looked down a wide stair into a great vaulted chamber called Westminster hall.

This was where his late majesty, King George V, had lain in state. I had seen his coffin there with members of some ancient and honorable regiment standing at the corners in white leather breeches, high boots, helmets and plumes.

A detective or plainclothesman from Scotland yard, which is just across the street, had smuggled four of us Americans in, ahead of thousands of loyal Britons who were standing in a misty rain in a wide cue a mile long.

We paid him about $10, which he had to split with a Sam Weller in a cap and soiled raincoat who had heard Floyd Gibbons' American accent as we walked along a gloomy street and had solicited our business.

It seemed unthinkable that a member of that impeccable corps of cops, whom we first met in Sherlock Holmes, could stoop to such business. But there we were, horning into the line through a cloakroom of the house of commons.

• • •

So my awe was qualified by a mild, skeptical reservation this recent afternoon as I waited off to one side, sizing up the grave ceremonies with which the house of commons adorns some of its routine actions.

About 150 men and women gathered in a rotunda on two sides of an invisible line, waiting. In a few minutes a tall man in a black uniform and military cap with a patent leather bill and two silver pips on his shoulders, the mark of a first lieutenant of the army, although he seemed to be a cop, called:

"Hats off, strangers!"

At that, all the "strangers," including even this officer and several tall bobbies, uncovered. Down a corridor, in a stately tread, came a man called a "messenger," in evening dress with white tie and breeches, with a gilt chain ending in a medallion the size of a saucer, leading a small procession.

He had a delicate, scholarly face. He made a square turn to his right and strode through the double rank of strangers to the door of the commons. Next came a man in similar dress bearing the official mace. This is a gold or gilded club, a symbol of royal authority, hollow in both the material and the symbolic senses.

If it were solid, a giant would stagger under the weight. And the poor sick king, who has just had a lung taken out and was stuck with his miserable job only by his brother's default, has no authority at all.

The speaker follows the man with the mace, who is called the serjeant, spelled with the "j." The speaker is the ideal picture of the British judge, in black robes with his trainbearer gently holding aloof the folds of his vestments like an acolyte in a religious procession.

With the laps of his wig, made of gray wool drooping in mournful ripples down to his shoulders like the ears of a bloodhound, "Mr. Speaker" was lordly and comical.

This procession must pass into the house and the prayer must be said before any "stranger" may enter the galleries. All persons not members are "strangers."

• • •

The speaker is a member selected by agreement of both sides for his impartial job. He goes into a vacuum after he is chosen, withdrawing from all political groups and from the company of members of all parties.

His existence is comparable to that of a major league baseball umpire back home. The justices of our supreme court used to observe a similar propriety.

Since Roosevelt loaded that bench with his own kind you find them lushing at Washington cocktail jams, shooting off their loud bazoos at conventions of the CIO, taking on odd jobs of political dirty work such as Justice Roberts' trick for Roosevelt in the Pearl harbor investigation, and packing cabinets and bureaus with their covert proteges as Felix Frankfurter has done.

Fire Levels Home Of Malta Family

MALTA, Dec. 12—Fire completely destroyed the Dale Smith home near here Monday night. No furniture or clothing was saved from the frame dwelling, according to Smith.

Smith, his wife and their small baby were attending a church event when the fire occurred. Faulty wiring was believed to have been the cause.

Shingles and sparks that blew from the house into the fields were put out by neighbors to keep haystacks and farm buildings from burning.

The house was uninsured. The Smiths now are living with relatives in Malta.

Closing of Two Colleges Seen As 1952 Issue

BOISE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Closure of northern and southern Idaho colleges of education will be the "main issue" in the 1952 election, state Sen. William J. Costley, D., Lewis, said yesterday in announcing his candidacy for reelection.

"If people in my county want me I'll be willing to return to the state senate to carry out the fight for reestablishment of the two schools," Costley said in an interview.

"My only ambition is to see both schools—and I mean both of them—reinstated," Costley said in denying rumors that he would be a candidate for first district congress in 1952.

Costley, one of the leaders in the 1951 legislative fight to save the two schools, presented figures to the All-Idaho Congress which he said showed that students at the two schools did not change over to the University of Idaho and Idaho State college as anticipated by Gov. Len Jordan.

Governor Jordan asked in his message to the last legislative session that the two schools be closed, saying that most of the students would be absorbed by the university and State college.

Costley said enrollment at the university's college of education had declined from 494 last semester to 460 for the current semester while that at Idaho State college increased by 36—302 compared with 260.

He then pointed out that the enrollment of students in the elementary education which he said was the principal purpose of NICE and SICE, had increased 15 at the university and only two at ISC.

Suit Is Filed to Collect Accounts

The Professional Adjustment bureau filed suit in Twin Falls justice court Tuesday against the Tri-State Neon company operated by Ralph Funke to collect money allegedly due on assigned accounts.

For its first cause of action the bureau seeks $225 and interest originally due the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company, St. Paul, for merchandise purchased in 1948. A second claim for $6.31 and interest is for merchandise purchased from Eight, Inc., Salt Lake City, in 1950. J. H. Barnes represents the bureau.

SOS

Anyone observing a sinking yellow 5-man rubber life raft propelled by a 4.2 horsepower motor is requested to save the occupants first and then report their identity to Twin Falls police.

Equipment of that description was stolen from the trunk of a car owned by Orville Tetz, route 1, Twin Falls.

Why would the boat be sinking? Tetz says it leaks.

Plea Filed

JEROME, Dec. 12—Nathan Goldberg, who is charged with a battery upon Henry Snoderly, 13, demurred to the complaint when arraigned before Probate Judge Theron Ward Monday.

Goldberg, an instructor and bus driver at Appleton school, was represented by his attorney. The complaint against him was signed by Claude Snoderly, father of the youth.

Farm Unit Hears Report on Parley

FILER, Dec. 12—Mrs. Beth Jacob, office manager of the Twin Falls county Farm Bureau, gave a report on the recent state convention Monday night at a meeting of the Filer community group.

Mrs. Jacob congratulated the Associated Women of this area for their organizational efforts and announced that Mrs. Gertrude W. Johnson, Twin Falls, has been selected district chairman. She also praised national Farm Bureau leaders who attended the state convention stating "It is gratifying to be associated with people of their caliber."

Raymond Reichert, in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Jacob both discussed the approaching county Farm Bureau election, pointing out that one delegate may be sent for each 20 members in the community organizations. The election is scheduled for late in January.

Grain

CHICAGO, Dec. 12 (AP)—Domestic flour sales and modest export business came to the rescue of a sagging market on the board of trade today.

President Orders Preparations for Churchill Parley

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — President Truman has ordered detailed preparations made for his talks with Prime Minister Churchill here next month despite Churchill's reluctance to propose a list of problems for discussion.

U. S. officials said today the United States side of the two-power meeting is being worked up on the assumption that Churchill will want to go into the whole range of policies governing relations between the two big western powers and Russia as well as specific Anglo-American issues. Both the state and defense departments are at work on the detailed listing.

Churchill sent word about two weeks ago that he did not plan to draw up an agenda for his series of meetings with the President, beginning Jan. 3. The American embassy in London has been directed nevertheless to seek the fullest possible information on what the prime minister has in mind in coming here.

Report Made

Decision on Land Dispute Is Upheld

BOISE, Dec. 12 (AP)—The state supreme court Wednesday upheld a decision by District Judges Kales E. Lowe in a Twin Falls county family land dispute.

Judge Lowe returned a judgment in favor of Arthur E. Glander, quieting title for a quarter section of land in which his sister, Gladys, claimed half ownership.

Glander brought the action against the sister and a brother, Wallace Glander, who did not contest it.

The disputed land was left by their father, John E. Glander, and Miss Glander claimed that a deed made her the half owner. However, the court found that the deed never was delivered.

Justice William D. Keeton wrote the unanimous opinion.

Car Industry May Face Questioning

DETROIT, Dec. 12 (AP)—A reference to possible "collusion" between big auto companies and their suppliers in defense contract bidding enlivened a congressional inquiry into army procurement policies today.

Federal trade commission attorneys were watching for any evidence of illegal trade restraints as a house subcommittee on executive expenditures held its third day of hearings. The group is examining particularly the army's huge Detroit ordnance tank-automotive center, which buys "everything on wheels" for the defense department.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

When there is a difference of opinion concerning a child's direction, the child falls between his parents. The very thing they want most to do, direct their child in paths of pleasantness, is sacrificed because the child is confused, distressed and thrown back upon himself. Being a child, he will choose the way that seems pleasantest to him. That is usually the childish way that leads to childishness.

A father who was reared in the old, hard way of obedience without a question, work as a discipline for behavior unsuitable in the eyes of his parents, church as a stern government in all the ways of life, wanted his son to attend church regularly because he knew this particular child needed the guidance of religious people.

The boy did not want to go, of course. Neither his father nor his mother went. Father, in rebellion against the home discipline, had refused to go at the age of 14 and never went back. His wife reminds him of this when he insists that his son attend church service saying, "What did you do when you were 14?" Naturally the boy does not go to church.

The same result, negative action on the boy's part, will follow any difference of opinion between the parents. For the sake of the child, the thing to do is to decide, privately, what course is best for the child and agree on it. That way means strength on which the child can depend. He needs to feel that strength behind him, waiting to support him in time of stress. The fact that he may argue about it, try to get out of doing what he is asked to do, does not change the basic fact that he leans hard on the strength of the authority his parents wield. He will even boast of it saying, with great pride in his voice, "My father wouldn't let me do such a thing. He'd sure get after me if I tried anything like that."

Children can take a great deal from their parents, holding no grudges when they make mistakes that distress their children, so long as they know that their parents love them and can be depended upon in time of trouble.

But to achieve this sound foundation of family life both parents must agree on basic principles for the training of the children. Both must agree on church attendance, on home routines, on character training for good habits. When a difficulty arises, as it certainly will now and then, to say, "What did you do when you were 14?" won't help. Disagreement is no solution for family difficulties.

If you issue too many orders to your child he will soon be rebellious and disobedient, but you can train him in obedience. Dr. Patri explains how this is done in booklet No. 301, "Obedience." To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y.

Another Elk

HAGERMAN, Dec. 12 — Another elk has been seen wandering over Magic Valley farm lands.

John Townsand and neighbors spotted a "big bull elk" Saturday and Sunday near a hay stack on his farm four miles east of Hagerman. The animal quickly galloped off on both occasions when he was approached.

Last summer an elk was spotted on a farm at Moroa between Twin Falls and Filer and last week a cow elk was seen west of Wendell by two Twin Falls duck hunters.

Hawley Hill, Jerome, district conservation supervisor, confirmed the reports of both the cow and the bull elk. He said reports have been coming in on the animals for two weeks and attempts are being made to trap them and return them to normal surroundings.

Idaho Cagers Rally to Trip Montana 64-54

WALLACE, Dec. 12 (AP) — The University of Idaho Vandals, outhustled most of the game by the Montana Grizzlies, cut loose with a scoring attack in the last quarter Tuesday night to win their seventh consecutive game of the season, 64-54.

A crowd of about 1,100 witnessed the game.

Idaho was trailing 37-45 at the 2:45 mark of the third quarter when the spark was ignited by Bob White, who sank a set shot from side court. Ed Haller and Dwight Morrison followed with hook shots from the key and at the end of the third period, Idaho trailed 43-45

Bill Mather tied the score with a long shot with 45 seconds gone in the last period, and Hartly Kruger hooked in one shot and tipped in another to give the Vandals a 49-45 lead at the 8:20 mark.

The Vandals never trailed after that although Montana closed the gap to 48-49 with a conversion by Ed Anderson and a set shot by Charles Davis.

Plea Is Made For Open Aid To Athletes

CARMEL, Calif., Dec. 12 (AP)—A plan for frank and open subsidization of college athletes was laid before the Pacific Coast conference Tuesday.

Under the plan, advanced by an alumni group, worthy athletes would be given their room, board and tuition.

Salaried field agents—one or more for each of the nine conference schools—would be named to see that the institutions' grants to athletes were standardized and to enforce the program. Penalties would be assessed for abuses.

The proposal was drafted by the recently-formed Pacific conference athletic alumni committee.

Bishop, a Los Angeles artists' agent, is a University of Southern California alumnus and represents the Trojan club. Alumni from California, Oregon, Oregon State, UCLA, Stanford also are listed on the committee's letterhead. The Universities of Washington and Idaho and Washington State college were not listed.

The conference, holding its midwinter meeting, meanwhile voted what was considered a "de-emphasis" on freshman football.

The maximum number of games for frosh teams was cut from five to four a season and the opening of practice was set for Sept. 20—five days later than at present.

The present rule, permitting freshmen to compete with the varsity, expires in June and will not be extended unless there is an emergency.

KAZMAIER HONORED

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—Dick Kazmaier, Princeton's two-time All-America halfback, Tuesday night was awarded the Heisman trophy as the outstanding college football player in the country.

Redbirds Sign Eddie Stanky

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12 (AP)—Eddie Stanky, fiery New York Giant second baseman, signed a two-year contract as manager with the St. Louis Cardinals today.

Stanky came up with an agreement with Cardinal owner Fred Saigh after a conference which lasted nearly three hours. No salary figures were mentioned but it was understood that Stanky would get around $37,000 a year.

Saigh said Stanky had been signed as a playing manager. Stanky sidestepped the question of what he would do about Red Schoendienst, one of the top second basemen in the business, by saying they would get around to that when spring training comes.

The Cardinals had to give up veteran lefthanded pitcher Max Lanier and outfielder Chuck Diering for the peppery little second baseman who last year fused the amazing Giant pennant drive at the season's finish.

Jolting Joe Hangs Up Uniform After 13 Famous Seasons

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, who ranks beside Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth as one of the greatest of all ball players, announced his retirement from baseball. While it was not a complete surprise, the announcement came as a shock to the nation's fans who long had thrilled to the batting and fielding exploits of the brilliant New York Yankee outfielder.

DiMaggio, at a specially arranged news conference in the plush Yankee offices before newsreel and television cameras, said he never would don a baseball uniform again. He said he never had entertained managerial or coaching ambitions and probably would accept a job with the Yankee organization as a television broadcaster.

It is expected that DiMaggio, who collected $704,769.71 during 13 years of playing with the club, would take the post of TV commentator of the Yankees' home baseball games. That post, left vacant when Dizzy Dean transferred to St. Louis to broadcast the Browns' games, reportedly will bring $50,000 a season.

DiMaggio, 37 years old last Nov. 25, said a series of injuries and mishaps which hampered him throughout his brilliant major league career, all of it with the Yankees, prompted his decision to quit.

"I knew I was beginning to slip as far back as three years ago," DiMag said. "The old timing was beginning to leave me and my reflexes were beginning to slow up.

"I began to think seriously of retiring last spring," he added. "By the end of the season I had made up my mind definitely. It had become a chore for me to play. I found it difficult getting out of bed in the morning, especially after a night game. I was full of aches and pains.

"By the end of the season, I had made up my mind definitely. I told Dan Topping (Yankee president) of my decision to quit. He asked me to think it over for a couple of months. Out of deference to Dan, I did as I was asked.

"But I never wavered in my decision. Nothing happened during those two months to make me change my mind."

(On Oct. 12, DiMaggio told the Associated Press he was through playing. The story was widely played. It was denied repeatedly by others but never by either the AP or DiMaggio).

DiMaggio said he knew he was going to miss the game but that he did not feel badly about that.

"Right now I feel wonderful," he said with a grin. "But I cannot forget those tortuous days and nights of agony. No, I've played my last game of ball and I have no regrets. I feel that I have reached the stage where I can no longer produce for my club, my manager, my teammates and my fans.

"I had a poor year in 1951. But even had I batted .350, this would have been the last year for me. When baseball is no longer fun, it's no longer a game."

DiMaggio spent an hour posing for the cameras. He was flanked on each side by his bosses, Yankee co-owners Del Webb and Topping.

"I was hopeful until as late as yesterday that Joe would change his mind," said Topping. "This is a sad day for the Yankees and a sad day for baseball. DiMaggio ranks along with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig as the greatest players in Yankee history."

"There will always be a place for DiMaggio with the Yankees," added Webb. "We have offered him several propositions, including the television post. Joe hasn't made up his mind which one to accept."

DiMaggio, who is scheduled to return to his home in San Francisco on Friday, said he expects to make his decision some time next week.

The veteran outfielder was lauded by Manager Casey Stengel as the "greatest player I have ever managed."

"He was our silent leader," said Stengel. "Without him we couldn't have won the pennant last season. He always gave everything he had, no matter how bad he felt. He served as an inspiration to the rest of the club. He was more than just a player. He was an institution. It was a privilege to serve as his manager."

Stengel said he planned to use 21-year-old Mickey Mantle at DiMaggio's place in centerfield.

Battle Royal To Head Mat Show Tonight

A five-man battle royal with a $200 added purse will highlight Wednesday's weekly wrestling program sponsored by the Twin Falls VFW at the Radio Rondevoo. Action is scheduled to start at 8:30 p. m.

Promoter Tex Hager has paired two newcomers with three men from last week's matches.

The new men are Jack Carter, a rough and tumble grappler from New Zealand and Jack Lipscomb, the colorful "Hoosier Hotshot."

Rounding out the wrestle royal will be Ted Evans, Tarzan Zimba and Cowboy Carlson. Evans made a hit with fans here last week by defeating Zimba in a thrill-packed semi-final. Evans is a master at using his legs to bounce opponents around and over the ring.

The five men will enter the ring at the same time in a "free-for-all." Every man will be looking out for himself. The first man eliminated will be through for the evening. The next two will come back for a 45-minute two-out-of-three fall battle and the final two in a one-hour or two-out-of-three fall match. The winner of the final event will win the $200 added purse.

The club will sponsor a rummage sale during January to raise money to finance a project to be selected

Margaret Golob, member of the Soroptimist club of Pocatello, was the guest of Mrs. Lillie Greeling.

Cooperating with the federation service objectives committee of the American Federation of Soroptimist clubs, the local club has voted to make a monetary contribution to Woman's Medical college of Pennsylvania. The college, located in Philadelphia, was founded on March 11, 1850. It was the first institution of its kind in the world and is the only college in the western hemisphere exclusively devoted to the medical education of women. Soroptimist clubs throughout the United States and Canada are contributing to the college during the current biennium.

There will be no dinner meeting of the club in December. The next meeting will be a luncheon Jan. 8.

Planning Board for Shoshone Looks Back on Nearly Three Years of Work

SHOSHONE, Dec. 12—On the eve of its second anniversary, the Shoshone city planning commission rolls into action with a plan for making an intricate zoning map of the city. The map is intended to be of considerable service in all improvement projects.

Taking the water users census is the first move toward that goal and will be a ready reference in engi- as placing illustrative markers in suitable locations for various types of development.

When the map is completed, it will be a ready reference in engineering and construction projects.

Shortly after the commission was organized in 1949, members of the commission made a tour of the city taking notes on all possible improvements. With the survey complete, the next order of business was the writing of informative letters to the city council. Such things as condition of the city's water supply, necessary road improvements, health hazards and beautification improvements were investigated and findings, along with suggested action, were reported to the council.

The commission has no governmental authority but serves in making recommendations and suggestions for community improvements. It is strictly a preparatory board, to prepare the town in various ways for future growth.

Maps, plats and replats of lands which require approval of the city council or any official or employe of the city should be submitted to the commission first for its suggestions. The commission, in turn, presents such matters to the council for action.

The commission also has authority to acquire by gift, devise, or bequest, land and property to carry out its work and has power to sell or otherwise dispose of the same.

According to Mayor Myrtle C. Burdett, community interest has improved since creation of the planning commission and she said, "It is hoped that community interest will continue to improve as people become familiar with the commission's objectives and realize that their own suggestions may be represented through this group."

Membership of the commission consists of the mayor, a city council member, both of whom are ex-officio members, and five appointed members. The ex-officio members are Mrs. Burdett and W. F. Stimpson, councilman. Appointed members are Elmer Terry, Robert Schuppenies, Mrs. Harrell Thorne, Leonard Daugherty and Ward Rawson.

Terms of office of ex-officio members corresponds to their respective tenure in city offices while appointed members first drew lots to determine two, four and six year terms. Thereafter the term of office for appointive members shall be six years.

Written records of meetings, findings and determinations are kept and are open to the public. Meetings are held at 7:30 p. m. at the city hall on the third Wednesday of each month and are open to the public.

Program Set

BURLEY, Dec. 12—The Christmas program to be given at the Miller PTA meeting this week was outlined by the executive committee Friday.

The meeting was held at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Miller school auditorium. The program will be conducted by teachers. Speakers will be Neal N. Nash, instructor at the Burley high school, LeRoy Archibald and Mrs. Peabody. Mrs. John Rencher will tell a story and there will be community singing of Christmas carols.

PARTY PLANNED

DIETRICH, Dec. 12—The Farmers Union is holding a Christmas party at the Grange hall next Monday.

Protestant Young People's Group Sets Christmas Carol Project for Dec. 22

A Christmas carol project will be held Dec. 22 by the newly-formed Community Call committee as the group's first activity.

Officers were selected Sunday at a meeting in the First Baptist church. The committee is composed of young people of all Protestant denominations who will work together for a united program of Christian action in the community.

Charlotte Wagner was named chairman; Ross Miller, vice chairman; Shirley Kistler, secretary, and Wayne Wynkoop, treasurer. Counselor for the group is the Rev. Herman C. Rice.

The Call is a nationwide program with a goal of enlisting 1,000,000 Protestant youth and adult leaders in a crusade for Christian action in the community, nation and world, according to the Rev. Mr. Rice.

Sponsored by the United Christian Youth movement which represents 38 denominations, the Call now has committees in most of the states and some youths are devoting six months from college work to the program.

Projects undertaken by the local committee will include evangelism, community service and world Christian citizenship, the Rev. Mr. Rice said.

Climax of Call activities is to be observed during youth week, Jan. 27 to Feb. 3, when the Christian youth and the adult leaders of Twin Falls will dedicate themselves to the program of the Call, he said.

Truman Nears Test on Right To 'Master Politician' Degree

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (UP)—The next few days will test the right of President Truman to be called a master politician.

His masters degree was won in 1948. Even Republicans and anti-Truman Democrats were agreed then that he belonged in the political league of FDR, Calvin Coolidge and the great Theodore.

Those men were simon-pure professionals. Each was a money player or clutch hitter, meaning that they were at their spectacular best under pressure and when trying to come up from behind.

That is where Mr. Truman is today: Under pressure and trying to come up from behind. Foreign policy is not going well. The hot war continues in Korea. The cold war continues through the rest of the world. Our North Atlantic allies now admit their inability to meet primary commitments for mutual defense.

But Mr. Truman's present peace of mind is most disturbed and his future place in history most challenged by events here at home. Corruption is an ugly word. In the sense in which it has been charged against some areas of the administration, it means: Impairment of integrity, virtue or moral principle; depravity.

These charges largely await proof. But it is of recent record that congressional investigation forced a reconstruction finance corporation house cleaning. Coincident thereto, William M. Boyle, jr., resigned as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Now the bureau of internal revenue and the justice department's tax division are making headlines as congressional investigators ask questions and a good many government officials and lesser fry lose their jobs. There is complaint of judicial obstruction of grand jury proceedings.

Mr. Truman must deal effectively with one or both of the bad situations which confront him if he is to remain a master politician in good standing. A big time foreign policy triumph would take a lot of heat off disclosures about the bureau of internal revenue and justice department at home.

A spectacular cleaning of infected areas at home would help the voters bear the disappointments of events abroad.

A combination of popular and fruitful action both at home and abroad could send Mr. Truman's stock zooming again as it often has zoomed in the past. Inaction could be politically fatal.

With an election year coming up, Mr. Truman must be thinking along those lines, too. His hurry-up return from Key West alerted the public to expect from the White House this week Mr. Truman's best effort—his Sunday punch.

Drivers Warned Of Icy Highways

SHOSHONE, Dec. 10—Sheriff Earl Clayton said Monday morning there had been a rash of minor mishaps in and around Shoshone as a result of the icy condition of the highways. Only one person was reported injured, however, and that person only slightly.

Sheriff Clayton warns all motorists to drive with extreme care in Lincoln county. The roads, he said, are exceptionally slippery and very dangerous.

2 New Light Autos Slated For Releas

DETROIT, Dec. 12 (AP)—If pla already announced are carried o at least two more lightweight ca will be out next year.

Willys-Overland and Hudson w introduce the newest of the light high fuel-mileage vehicles unle materials or other shortages preve their production.

Unlike the Kaiser-Frazer an Nash lighter units, the Willys an Hudson cars will be more nearly standard wheelbase. However, bot will boast high fuel mileage.

Besides these two companies, couple of others reportedly also a experimenting with lighter weigh cars. There is no present indicatio though, that they will be put o the assembly lines during 1952.

Opinions Vary

There still is varying opinio among auto makers regarding th market for smaller and lighter car Nash and K-P claim demand f their Rambler and Henry J model respectively, has exceeded origina expectations.

Willys and Hudson, of course, expect a profitable market for the projected lighter vehicles. The co of putting an entirely new mode into production runs into mor money than would be risked without some such conviction. It ha been estimated Willys is investin something like $10,000,000 in its firs conventionally-styled passenger ca since before World war II.

Tools Available

Hudson reports it will use presently available machine tools in production of its lighter vehicle. Som of this probably was obtained befor the ban on new tooling was announced. Hudson says the new ca has been in the making for severa years.

Some auto makers still feel th market for smaller cars is limited. They claim that while the smaller cars have economy appeal that appeal isn't as substantial as might be assumed from the emphasis customarily placed on fuel mileage.

This may be argumentative rather than factual. Certainly high gasoline mileage has been the goal o automotive engineers for many years. It will be for many more years. However, the major volume ca producers have been able to sell al the standard-sized cars material availability permitted them to produce.

With continuing controls th probably will be able to sell all th cars they will build in the yea ahead. So they don't need a smaller vehicle to maintain sales volume.

Scots Have Nothing on Folks In Monterey, Hank Discovers

By HENRY McLEMORE

MONTEREY, Mexico—For a reason nobody can explain, the citizens of this town are celebrated throughout Mexico for their stinginess. Actually, they are as generous and free spending as inhabitants of any other town anywhere in the country, but their alleged unwillingness to part with a peso or centavo is a standing joke with Mexicans.

McLemore

The stories about Monterey remind me of the way Brooklyn has become famed in song and story. As anyone who has ever been there knows, Brooklyn is as cultured, if not more so, as any of New York City's boroughs, but to the United States at large it is known as a daffy place. Mention it almost anywhere and you draw a laugh. You'd think that almost everyone in Brooklyn wears dunce caps, sits on stools in corners, and goes around acting loony.

Like Brooklynites, who derive a certain satisfaction out of their supposed idiosyncrasies, the good burghers of Monterey are always telling about their own stinginess. One of their favorite stories concerns a Monterey bullfighter named Serafino who adored an older brother, Carmelo, also a bullfighter. Serafino's success was due entirely to the patient teaching of Carmelo. One day in the bull ring Carmelo was gored, died and went to heaven.

The city mourned Carmelo's death, but drew solace from their belief he would be looking down from heaven whenever his younger brother fought. But, being a true son of Monterey, Serafino, the next time he fought, arranged to have a giant canopy placed over the arena. When visitors to Monterey inquired as to the reason for the canopy, they were told that Serafino didn't want his dear departed brother, Carmelo, to watch him without having paid for a ticket.

Serafino's gesture raised him in the esteem of his fellow citizens and he was given a tremendous ovation when he came out to meet his first bull, and everybody expressed the opinion that Carmelo would not be at all surprised at what Serafino had done, being from Monterey himself.

Monterey children, like children the world over, are crazy about all-day suckers. A favorite story here is that only recently a prominent banker, now in his 50s, was seen back of his big mahogany desk working on an all-day sucker with tremendous pleasure. Told by friends he was rather an odd sight, he explained that he had been given the sucker when he was a youngster, but that only the day before had his father given him permission to take off the wrapper.

On a more morbid note, the people of Monterey got a good chuckle out of what they swear happens at the funerals of veterans of the revolution of 1910. Those who were unfortunate enough to get in the way of a cannon ball and lose a leg, no matter how well off their families may be, are always carried to their last repose in one legged caskets. That is, caskets cut to accommodate only one leg, thereby saving wood. No waste for the thrifty folk of Monterey.

Many of the townspeople "attend" Sunday services by listening to them over the radio, and the people here enjoy telling that when the collection is taken up, every radio in Monterey is clicked off.

You know, I may bring my piggy bank to Monterey and settle down. Sensible lot of people here.

Plans Changed on Paul Sewer Plant

PAUL, Dec. 12—At a recent special meeting of the village board, Wendell Smith, Preston, engineer for Paul's proposed sewer system, said a complete treatment plant can not be installed because of shortage of material.

The board decided to go ahead with a simplified plan which Smith reports has been approved by the state. The board decided to call for bids on the digging of trenches and lines.

Smith told the board it will take him three weeks more to draw up new plans for the primary treatment plant which the state also has approved. When the plans have been received and approved by the village bids will be sought.

Baptist Choir Prepares Christmas Program

A choral arrangement by Fred Waring of "Song of Christmas" will be presented Dec. 16 by the First Baptist church choir. Russell Bennett, right, will direct the choir with Bert Sweet, jr., center, doing the narration. Florence Martin is organist. (Staff photo-engraving)

* * * * * * * *

Sacred Holiday Cantata to Be Presented Sunday by Baptists

Presentation of a sacred holiday cantata, "The Song of Christmas," is scheduled for 8 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist church, the Rev. Herman C. Rice announces.

The cantata will feature the church choir and five soloists. Soloists are Mrs. Marjorie Pipplit, mezzo soprano; Nellie Treadway, soprano; Merland Edwards, baritone; Mrs. Betty Lou Sharp, soprano, and Clark Allison, tenor.

Narrator is Bert A. Sweet, jr.; Lillian Clark is the voice and accompanists are Mrs. Sally Molyneux and Florence Martin.

The cantata, written by Roy Ringwald, was first featured by Fred Waring on a Christmas day radio broadcast.

Preceding the cantata the junior high young people will present the story of the Christ child in antiphonal and choral readings.

Carols incident to the story will be sung by the junior department choir and the program will be unified by the "spirit of Christmas" who will introduce the several parts of the presentation.

The public is invited to attend the program.

Cable Trolley Helps Korean Hilltop Fight

EAST CENTRAL FRONT, KOREA, Dec. 12 (U.P.)—Aerial cable trolley No. 7 has gone into operation at the front, rushing hot meals and supplies to troops in hilltop positions and bringing back wounded in speedy comfort.

Engineers operating within mortar range of the front on a round-the-clock basis supply the mountain positions with up to 15 tons of essential supplies a day. Without the aerial tramways hundreds of man-hours of back-breaking work would be needed to do the same job.

Wounded men from ridgetop positions get to hospital units six hours faster than they would if carried down the rough mountain trails by litter bearers. The hours might mean the difference between life and death.

Col. Paul W. Ramee of the Okinawa engineers district planned the aerial supply lines last July. Since then the third combat engineers have strung six cable routes, and the seventh was inaugurated yesterday.

Capt. William J. Love, Portland, Ore., commander of D company of the third engineers, said it takes from five to 10 days to build a tramway. The biggest job is putting in the cable anchors.

The carriers are pulled up the cable by power from a truck engine. Each cable car handled up to 400 pounds per trip.

The longest cable line runs more than 4,000 feet up a mountain and operates in two stages.

Love said the tramways mean two hot meals a day plus plenty of fresh water for the hilltop soldiers.

Minidoka School Building Problem Is Debated Again

RUPERT, Dec. 12 — Minidoka county's school building program came up for discussion again at the meeting of the county school trustees Monday night but nothing was accomplished or decided.

The board received word that Rupert has been "warned" that it will not continue to be accredited by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools unless something is done about the school buildings in Rupert.

This announcement led to a discussion on the report of George Denman, supervisor of reorganization for the state board of education, to the study group appointed in Minidoka county for the school building program.

Prior to Denman's report to the study group there was some consideration in the county to split the area into two districts. Denman advised that residents study this suggestion thoroughly before making a decision.

Among the bills ordered paid by the trustees Monday night was one for $5,371.80 for a new 54-passenger school bus.

RUPERT, Dec. 12—An automobile driven by Lyle R. Morton, Burley, and a truck owned and operated by Simon Lund, also Burley, collided at 3:30 p. m. Monday on the Alfresco road five miles west of Heyburn.

No one was injured but the automobile was damaged to the extent of $300. Damage to the truck was slight. Slippery roads were given as the cause of the crash.

State Feeders Feeling Pinch In Hay Stocks

MOSCOW, Dec. 12 (AP)—Idaho stockmen are feeling the pinch of a definitely short supply of hay because much of the state's hay had been shipped to neighboring states earlier in the season.

So declared E. F. Rinehart, Boise, University of Idaho extension animal husbandman, before 80 Idaho livestock breeders attending the second day of an annual breeder-herdsman short course here.

Rinehart described the feed shortage as acute in some parts of the state where hay was trucked out during the summer. "Some feeders have more animals on hand now than they can find feed for and they are facing a serious problem," he said.

"Idaho hay is no longer selling on a local market," he added. "Truckers from California, Oregon and Utah who come into the state with other goods are loading hay for the return trip. Stockmen must get in on the earlier market rather than waiting until they have livestock on hand before looking for the feed."

Rinehart was the third speaker on yesterday's program. He was preceded by T. B. Keith, university animal nutritionist, and Frank Roach, Spokane. Keith spoke on feeds and Roach chose feeding of show and sale cattle as his topic.

Walter A. Holt, secretary of Portland's Pacific International livestock exposition, discussed the importance of grassland farming at a dinner meeting Monday night.

Taxpayers Form In Lincoln County

SHOSHONE, Dec. 12 — Approximately 50 Shoshone taxpayers met at the county courthouse Monday to discuss taxes. Many residents of Shoshone and Lincoln county feel their taxes are too high and that something should be done to lower them.

F. C. Wentworth was appointed temporary chairman of the group and C. M. Wilson was named temporary secretary.

The persons who attended the meeting Monday night were, for the most part, representatives of organizations in Shoshone. They were instructed to discuss the tax problem with their groups and to formulate resolutions to be presented at another meeting of the group in the near future.

BURLEY MAN FINED

RUPERT, Dec. 12—J. D. Anderson, Burley, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of intoxication in a public place. He was fined $10 and costs in police court Monday. He was arrested at 1:45 a. m. Sunday.

Gooding to Ballot On Hospital Help

GOODING, Dec. 12 — Gooding county commissioners Monday decided to hold an election to learn the sentiment of the people relative to making the Gooding Memorial hospital a county-supported institution.

The question of making it a county institution has come up since St. Valentine's hospital in Wendell is about to be closed. The Catholic sisters are running the Wendell hospital are to move to Jerome to run that city's new hospital.

The election will be held in the county's five districts, Gooding, Wendell, Hagerman, Bliss and Tuttle. Date for the election has not been set and judges have not been named. The commissioners, however, will order ballots prepared for the election.

Jury List Drawn

JEROME, Dec. 12 — The Jerome county commissioners Monday began work on the 1952 jury list for district court.

The board also issued beer licenses to Willard Wood, Dewey Higgins, C. C. Tankersley and Joe Kolinski, all Jerome; Young and Haight, Eden, and Charles Webb and Mary Taylor, both Hazelton. Liquor licenses were issued to the North Side club in Jerome and the Pine club, Hazelton.

Levy Assessment Errors Corrected By County Board

SHOSHONE, Dec. 12—Taxes erroneously assessed to three Lincoln county residents were ordered canceled Monday by the county commissioners.

The board not only ordered taxes amounting to $12.72 assessed against B. E. Gordon canceled but also ordered a refund of $33. The taxes had been assessed against land traded to the federal government.

A tax of $7.29 against E. G. Gooding was ordered canceled for the same reason. A personal property tax of $53.20 against Charles E. Ward also was ordered canceled because it has been assessed erroneously.

Beer licenses in the county were issued and the 1952 jury list was picked.

Homer S. Attworth, Shoshone, was named weed supervisor for the county and a half-ton truck for weed control work was purchased from the Martin Motor company for $1,499.55. The only other firm to bid on the truck was the Shoshone Implement company. The latter's bid was $1,681.

CHRISTMAS COOKING TIPS

By Marian Bell

Let's make this Christmas one to be remembered, filled with homey things, familiar things. Blend of laughter, pine, music and the fragrance of mince, spice and a proud bird roasting in the oven.

WHAT'S LEFT to do on your Christmas dinner plans? Plenty? Well, let's wrap it up, piece by piece, shall we? Table decorations? Use greens, Christmas tree ornaments and red candles. Run a wide band of red satin ribbon down the center of the table. White cloth. Inexpensive red or green glasses are a nice touch, too.

STUFFED TO PERFECTION—Season and stuff your turkey to plump, tasty perfection. This is one job you can do early. One or two days early, that is. Mix the stuffing and chill well. Pin-feather the bird and stuff it one or two days ahead. The tempting seasonings and spices all blend—and lend—their flavors better when they have a little time. Remember to keep the stuffed turkey cold until shortly before you roast it.

FLUFFY BREAD STUFFING

16 cups soft bread crumbs (2 pounds day-old bread)
1 cup minced celery
1 cup minced onion
3 teaspoons Crescent Poultry Seasoning
¼ teaspoon Crescent Pepper
2 teaspoons Crescent Season Salt
1 cup margarine
½ teaspoon Crescent Imitation Butter Flavor
¼ cup hot water

Melt margarine, add butter flavor, onions and celery, cook until onions become soft. Add seasonings to bread crumbs, add margarine, then water, toss together until well blended. (Enough for 12-15 lb. turkey.)

CHRISTMAS MEANS COOKIES—One simple recipe—your favorite sugar cookie recipe—can make all kinds. Use fancy cutters or cut the rolled dough in squares, diamonds and bells with a knife. Decorate them with Sprinx—Crescent's wonder-working Sprinx, the colored sugars and decorating materials in shaker-top jars. Just sprinkle it on. Pretty colors, easy to use!

END IN A BLAZE OF GLORY—Christmas pudding, plump with fruit, fragrant with spices. Traditional finish for the dinner! Top it with a spoonful of hard sauce or whipped cream and crown it with a touch of red or green Sprinx. A little holly on the plate is pretty, too! Here's a pudding that is easy and economical to make—and it keeps so well you may want to double the recipe so you'll have an extra pudding for later in the holidays. Crescent full-flavored Spices, Lemon Extract, Mapleine give it a real flavor lift.

CHRISTMAS PUDDING

1 cup sifted flour
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon Crescent Baking Powder
1 teaspoon Crescent Cinnamon
1 teaspoon Crescent Allspice
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup grated raw carrots
1 cup grated raw potato
½ cup melted shortening
¼ teaspoon Crescent Imitation Butter Flavor
½ teaspoon Mapleine
½ teaspoon Crescent Lemon Extract

Sift together dry ingredients. Add raisins, grated carrot and potato, blend together. Melt shortening, add butter flavor, stir into flour mixture. Add flavors, mix thoroughly. Fill greased mold or coffee tin ⅔ full, cover tightly, steam 3 hours.

☆ Merry Christmas to you and yours!
